This month in The Hills, I have seen a continuation of the same trends as last month. Speeding has been reduced, and I am seeing a slight improvement on stop signs, at least when I am visible. Overall things have been quiet this month in The Hills, with no major crime reports. It seems that even the juvenile issues have quieted down for the time being. This month has seen a lot of emotional issues surrounding the fires across Texas, and especially near home. I have once again been impressed with the residents and staff here on the outpouring of concern and assistance. Other than these issues, the same issues as last month apply.
